

Manage access with content restriction

Newsela tools help you align content access with state and district guidelines and your instructional goals.

Newsela takes authentic, real world content from trusted sources and makes it instruction ready for 3-12 classrooms. Texts are published at five reading levels, so content is accessible to every learner. With more than 15,000 texts and videos, and new content published daily across 20+ genres, Newsela enables educators to go deep on any topic they choose.

Questions about content

We know the selection of content and curriculum is a local decision and one that can be complex. Educational leaders want to be confident that instructional content supports learning while meeting specific guidelines from the district or state.

We can help you better navigate that complexity. We partnered with school districts from across the U.S. to develop content settings, a set of tools to easily manage the availability of Newsela content.

How content restriction works

Available within all Newsela's premium products, content restriction is available for any Newsela customer. With this feature, you will be able to:

- ✓ Manage content visibility at the grade level for teachers and students.
- ✓ Automatically apply visibility settings for any new content published in Newsela.
- ✓ Create custom labels to communicate district expectations for specific content.
- ✓ Restrict content based on specific topics such a gambling, identity, religion, & more.
